STATINTL

STATINTL Dear General:

[redacted] office informed us of your desire for the papers regarding your consultant appointment with CIA and the question of drawing retired pay on the days on which you got a consultant's fee. You will recall that this was discussed in detail with the Comptroller General's office who saw no objection to the arrangement as described.

STATINTL

As you know, the subject of dual compensation, and particularly of retired pay for officers whose services are utilized in a civilian capacity, is a complicated one. The statutes are most restrictive, and the regulations and interpretations of the statutes are complex, confusing and in some cases contradictory. It is a subject therefore which is not well understood even by those constantly dealing with such problems. This is illustrated by the fact that the Navy in [redacted] case, which is precisely similar to yours, had gotten the facts and the rulings confused and we are having them straightened out again with the Comptroller General's office, in spite of the fact that we had briefed the Navy Finance Officer on the problem.

If therefore the memoranda in question were used by those ignorant of the subject, they could quite possibly do more harm than good. We would, therefore, prefer in your own interest to retain any documentation here on the condition that if any question comes up at any time, we would be glad to undertake any action necessary to a satisfactory solution. Therefore, if any question does come up, we would appreciate being notified at your earliest convenience and will assure you that it will be given immediate attention.

Very truly yours,

/s/
